Ghassan Hitto

Co-Founder, Chairman of the Board,
Chief Executive Officer

This past year has marked a turning point in Syria's history, one defined by resilience, recovery, and a renewed sense of purpose. December 8, 2024, now stands as a symbol of hard-won freedom. It represents not just a political shift, but the collective will of Syrians to reclaim their future.

Liberation means more than self-determination; it means dignity in daily life, the right to heal, to rebuild, to dream, and to lead. This historic milestone was made possible by the unwavering courage of Syrians themselves. Communities, activists, and local leaders came together to assert their agency and chart their own course.

Today, a new chapter for the Syrian Forum has truly begun. With the relocation of our headquarters to Damascus and the opening of a new office in Aleppo—alongside our established presence in Azaz, Idlib, Istanbul, and Gaziantep—we are expanding our reach and deepening our commitment to serve all regions of Syria. Our programs continue to grow, responding to urgent needs and long-term aspirations alike. In parallel, we continue to advocate for Syrians at the international level—amplifying their voices in policy arenas and championing a path toward transitional justice that honors victims, fosters accountability, and lays the foundation for a just and lasting peace.

This is the moment to deepen our resolve, to invest in Syria's recovery, and ensure that hard-won gains are protected and expanded. We remain steadfast—not as saviors, but as allies—in shaping a future where Syria's story is no longer one of loss, but of resilience, recovery, and the boundless potential of its people.

HOW WE WORK

Needs Based

Our approach to programs is based on understanding and identifying the needs of local communities through various assessment tools, including interviews, focus group discussions, and surveys.

Strong Program Design

The Programs Department works to identify gaps and create a program aimed at addressing the root causes of needs.

Communities and local councils are consulted at this stage to better understand the feasibility of such programs and to ensure community participation.

Monitoring, Evaluation, Accountability, and Learning

Through this function, we can monitor the outputs of programs and measure their impact throughout baseline and end-line assessments.

It also provides access to beneficiaries to give their feedback and complaints.

Our MEAL department allows us to learn lessons from previous projects and apply them moving forward to strengthen our future programming.

Continuous Institutional Development and Capacity Building

Reviewing all the operations of the organization's departments and ensuring that the policies and procedures adopted are followed, in addition to developing suggestions and recommendations that enhance the internal control process and raise the level of professionalism and transparency within the organization.

We also make great efforts to build the capacities of the team, especially those working on the front lines.
